NEW YORK STATE BOARD OF ELECTIONS REPLY MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT

Preliminary Statement

This memorandum of law is respectfully submitted by ERIC T. SCHNEIDERMAN, Attorney General of the State of New York, attorney for defendant New York State Board of Elections (the "State Board"), an agency of the Executive Department of the State of New York, in support of the State Board's motion for a judgment and order, pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, dismissing the complaint in this action on the ground that this action is barred by the Eleventh Amendment, and for failure to state a cause of action, and in reply to the opposition filed by plaintiff James McMillan ("McMillan") on May 9, 2012, with exhibits ("Pl. Mem.") (Doc. # 21 in this Court's docket).

Argument

McMILLAN'S OPPOSITION FAILS TO REFUTE
THE STATE BOARD'S COMPLETE DEFENSES TO THIS ACTION

McMillan's opposition to the State Board's motion to dismiss the complaint does not address any of the defenses demonstrated in the State Board's opening memorandum of law, filed on April 23, 2012 (Doc. # 20) ("State Apr. 23 Mem.").

That memorandum of law established several principal reasons why the State Board's motion should be granted in its entirety, and that the complaint should be dismissed.

This Court has already held, and the Second Circuit has affirmed, in a related case brought by McMillan, that the State Board is an agency of the Executive Department of the State of New York, pursuant to N.Y. Election Law § 3-100(a), entitled to Eleventh Amendment immunity. McMillan v. New York State Bd. of Elections, 2010 WL 4065434, *3 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 15, 2010) (Gleeson, D.J.), aff'd, 449 Fed.Appx. 79, 2011 WL 6061356, *1 (2d Cir. Dec. 7, 2011) (Summary Order) ("The district court correctly dismissed McMillan's claims against the State Board as barred by the Eleventh Amendment.").<sup>1</sup> See State Apr. 23 Mem. POINT I.<sup>2</sup>

In addition, as demonstrated in the State Board's opening memorandum of law, the complaint requires dismissal for failing to state a cause of action. The complaint seeks an injunction requiring the State Board to recount all ballots from the 2010 gubernatorial election in which McMillan, representing the "Rent Is Two Damn High" party, was a candidate.<sup>3</sup> McMillan's initial filings in this action were deemed to constitute a preliminary injunction motion, which this Court denied. McMillan v. New York State Bd. of Elections, 2012 WL 909934 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 16, 2012) (Gleeson, D.J.).<sup>4</sup>

As this Court held, McMillan "failed to demonstrate the requisite impending irreparable harm, a likelihood of

<sup>2</sup> Furthermore, this Court has held that "it is well-settled that a State and its instrumentalities are not 'persons' subject to suit under § 1983." Ding v. Bendo, 2006 WL 752824, *4 n. 2 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 23, 2006) (Gleeson, D.J.) (citing Spencer v. Doe, 139 F.3d 107, 111 (2d Cir. 1998)). See State Apr. 23 Mem. POINT II.

<sup>3</sup> McMillan's complaint, filed on January 23, 2012 (Doc. # 1 in this Court's docket), is appended to State Apr. 23 Mem.

success on the merits, or a balance of hardships that tips decidedly in his favor." Id. at *2. Moreover, this Court continued, "[e]ven construing McMillan's pro se petition liberally and interpreting it to raise the strongest arguments that [it] suggest[s], I am unable to discern a legal claim underlying his petition that has any potential merit -- much less one on which he is clearly entitled to relief." Id. (citation and internal quotation marks omitted) (emphasis added).

As this Court held, first, "[t]o the extent McMillan intends to raise a claim under state election law, he is far too late." Id. Any such claim would have been brought in 2010. Id. See State Apr. 23 Mem. POINT III(A).

Second, as this Court stated, "McMillan's petition . . . atmospherically suggests a religious-discrimination basis for his claim, referring in his papers to the 'New York State Board of Elections Religious Officials,' and the Board officials' 'Religious beliefs.'" Id., referring to complaint ¶ 4, in which McMillan alleges that the State Board objected to the word "damn."

"However . . . there is no dispute that the word 'damn' did appear on the relevant ballot. McMillan acknowledges that his political affiliation on the 2010 gubernatorial ballot was designated as the 'Rent Is 2 Damn High.'" Id. (emphasis original). See State Apr. 23 Mem.

POINT III(B).

Third, alleged "overvotes" -- which occur when a voter votes for more candidates than are allowed for any one office -- cannot support a claim, because, as this Court explained, "overvoted ballots cannot be counted as a vote for any candidate." Id. (emphasis added). See State Apr. 23 Mem. POINT III(C).

Finally, "[a]n onerous, expensive and seriously belated recount of all 4.7 million paper ballots cast in the 2010 election, without even an allegation that the determination of the winner is at stake, cannot be justified under the equitable considerations that inform the exercise of the court's discretion to issue equitable relief such as a mandatory injunction." Id. at 3. See State Apr. 23 Mem. POINT III(D).

For all of these reasons, the complaint should therefore be dismissed as barred by the Eleventh Amendment, and for failure to state a cause of action.

McMillan's opposition reiterates his basic contention - highly implausible and unsupportable - that the State Board unlawfully has subjected him to "religious" discrimination, again asserting as follows:

I ask the Court to ORDER a recount because the Religious Leaders (Executives) of the New York State Board of Elections has tried in every way from (c. 2006 to 2010) (until ordered on by the Court in 2010) to keep the word "DAMN" off of the New York State Ballot to them the word "DAMN" was and is Offensive and is a Curse Word.

Pl. Mem. at 1 (sic).

As noted above, this Court held, in March 2012, that "there is no dispute that the word 'damn' did appear on the relevant ballot. McMillan acknowledges that his political affiliation on the 2010 gubernatorial ballot was designated as the 'Rent Is 2 Damn High'" party. McMillan, 2012 WL 909934, at *3 (emphasis original). See State Apr. 23 Mem. POINT III(B). Furthermore, as McMillan also failed to do in his 2010 lawsuit which this Court dismissed, he offers no support for his contention that the word "damn" purportedly violates the precepts or sensibilities of any religion, much less why the State Board purportedly objected to the name of his political organization.

Indeed, McMillan concedes - as he must, in Pl. Mem. at 2:

Jimmy McMillan for Governor in the 2010 for the "Rent Is 2 Damn High Party."

This is the way the name appeared on the Ballot.

Emphasis added.

McMillan then focuses on a report he appears to have obtained from the U.S. Election Assistance Commission concerning certain optical ballot scanners. Pl. Mem. at 2, and Exs. A & B. McMillan appears to claim that the name of his party was incomplete on the ballot, describing the organization as "Rent Is 2 Damn" rather than "Rent Is 2 Damn High." Id.

There is no support, or factual basis, for McMillan's assertion. McMillan fails to furnish this Court with an example of a ballot used in the 2010 gubernatorial election describing his organization as "Rent Is 2 Damn," rather than "Rent Is 2 Damn High." An example of a ballot used in the 2010 gubernatorial election describing McMillan's organization as "Rent Is 2 Damn High," rather than as "Rent Is 2 Damn," is appended to this reply memorandum of law.

McMillan's mistake in making this argument probably stems from his failure to realize that the U.S. Election Assistance Commission report concerns a different optical ballot scanning system than any of those used in New York. The report, on its face, clearly refers to Election Systems and Software ("ES&S") Unity 3.2.0.0, used specifically in an entirely different state -- namely, Cuyahoga County, Ohio. See Pl. Mem. Ex. B.

ES&S 3.2.0.0 is not certified by the State Board for use in New York, and has not been used by New York local election administrators. The State Board certified a different ES&S system, called DS-200 v.2.1.0.0. The State Board's December 15, 2009 certification is set forth at http://www.elections.ny.gov/NYSBOE/hava/Voting\_Machines/Testing/ESSScannerResolutionFinal12152009.pdf. McMillan has simply misunderstood that the ES&S system discussed in the U.S. Election Assistance Commission report is not the same ES&S system as the one certified by the State Board for use in New York.

McMillan further objects that the State Board's motion to dismiss and prior submissions in this action complained about what it would cost to do a Re-Count but had NO consideration of what it had already cost to the voters of there Constitutional Rights being disenfranchise under the Voting Rights Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. § 1973-1973aa-6).

Pl. Mem. at 2 (sic).

McMillan's argument is unavailing because the complaint in this action makes no mention of the Voting Rights Act, see complaint, filed on January 23, 2012 (Doc. # 1 in this Court's docket). McMillan's opposition does not allege how any section of the Voting Rights Act might have been violated by the State Board, and he may not use his opposition papers on this motion to purport to amend his complaint in order to allege a previously-unmentioned, and presently unspecified, Voting Rights Act claim. See Fitzgerald v. Thompson, 2009 WL 29599, *4, fn. 3 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 5, 2009) (Jones, D.J.) ("A party may not use his or her opposition to a dispositive motion as a means to amend the complaint.") (citing Wright v. Ernst & Young LLP, 152 F.3d 169, 178 (2d Cir. 1998)), aff'd, 353 Fed.Appx. 532 (2d Cir. 2009), cert. denied, 130 S.Ct. 3500 (2010).

Under all the circumstances, the complaint in this action is without merit, and should be dismissed in its entirety.

Conclusion

THE STATE BOARD'S MOTION SHOULD BE GRANTED IN ITS ENTIRETY, AND THE COMPLAINT SHOULD BE DISMISSED.
